

About the Authors

Ishbel Marion Campbell, RGN, RSCN, NMP, MSc
Advanced Nursing Practice (clinical), DTN

Ishbel Campbell is an advanced nurse practitioner working in General Practice in the UK. She has been travelling to Uganda and other African countries several times a year for the past 12 years with Dr Mhairi Collie and the extended Uganda Childbirth Injury team, working alongside the nurses looking after patients who have suffered birth trauma injuries. She is a trustee and secretary of the Uganda Childbirth Injury Fund.

Ian Shane Asiimwe, MBChB, MMED surgery,
MScHM, FMAS, F. Urology, Fistula surgeon

Ian Shane Asiimwe is a consultant general surgeon in Uganda with many years' experience as a fistula surgeon. Uganda is a country with a high burden of obstetric injuries, where he travels to many hospitals to repair affected women who are mobilized through fistula camps. He has trained and continues to train many doctors and nurses in female Urogynecology caring for the fistula patients. He has presented and published several papers at fistula conferences as well as in peer reviewed journals. He is a member of the national Fistula Technical Working Group, the International Society of Obstetric Fistula Surgeons and a Fellow on the FIGO Fistula Surgery Training Initiative.

